

The Israel Studies Annual Lecture Series
Presents

The First Verse of Genesis: The Joy and Difficulty of Intertextual Reading

Lecture by Israeli Author
Dror Burstein

The lecture will follow various texts which echo the first verse of Genesis, from the ancient Babylonian creation myth and the Book of Jubilees, to modern Hebrew literature and contemporary cosmology.

Friday, October 17, 2014
5:00pm

FAMES, Sidgwick Site, Rooms 8&9
Reception and refreshments following

Dror Burstein is, among other things, poet, culture critic, teacher, and most importantly, an exciting and profound author whose works deal with the legacy of Hebrew literature, with authenticity and reproduction, as well as modern prophecy and moralism in the age of globalism. Burstein won several prestigious awards in Israel: the Jerusalem Prize for Literature (1997), the Ministry of Science and Culture Prize for Poetry (2002), the Bernstein Prize for his novel, Avner Brenner (2003) and the Prime Minister's Prize (2006). Two of his latest books, Kin and Netanya were translated into English and published by Dalkey Archive Press.

The lecture and reception are free and open to the public and sponsored by the Centre for Modern Hebrew Studies and FAMES. Info. Contact Dr.Tali Artman at ta378@cam.ac.uk